

On the app startup, the user enters a note into the top text box with the grey text hint. The user is the primary actor using this system. The system contains one text box and a listview. The Add button will add the data in the edit text box to the list. The user can also edit list items on a single click or delete a specific item on a long click. The goal is to have a set of notes that the user has entered. This set can also be modified as well.
